

A week of observations, to share with the teacher

A small bridge — sharing what you saw at home, in the same spirit.

This is sharing observations, not an evaluation. Not about judging right or wrong — when home and school overlap what they see, we understand one child more fully. Please write what you saw.

Week observed

A scene I saw repeatedly this week — recurring actions/situations

Moments / settings my child seemed at ease

One thing I noticed for the first time this week

A small change at home

Something I'd like to ask the teacher — questions, things to look at together

 One line is a dot. When home and school's dots gather, the child's 'flow' comes into focus. — TaleNest
